Abstract: South Side High School, located on S. 7th Street and West Madison, opened in 1893. In 1899, the school became known as South Division. Students moved into a new building on West Lapham Boulevard in 1977. The old building was razed the following year. There were hopes to incorporate its famous copper dome into the new building, but those efforts failed.

Scope and Content: The collection consists of commencement programs, newspapers, correspondence, clippings, souvenir books related to the school and various reunions (primarily the 50th in 1943). Also included are three scrapbooks of reunion letters, photos, and tickets from 1938, 1940 and 1943.

Access and Use: No restrictions
